

HILLSBOROUGH: New company provides in-home senior services

Thursday, July 29, 2010 11:05 AM EDT

Home Helpers of Hillsborough is a new home care agency specializing in non-medical and personal in-home care and companionship, providing some much-needed relief to the “Sandwich Generation” — adults caring for their aging parents — by helping seniors remain independent for as long as safely possible.

Home Helpers of Hillsborough provides services including grocery shopping, meal preparation, light housekeeping, medication reminders, local transportation and assistance bathing, dressing and feeding.

“As a business that works closely with senior citizens on daily a basis, it is our mission to provide the best quality care and companionship for elders in the Hillsborough area and to educate the community on issues that may affect their loved ones,” Tom Finley, managing partner of the Home Helpers office in Hillsborough, said.

Home Helpers offers free in-home consultations and works with clients to tailor care plans to meet their specific needs and budgets. Caregivers are available on an hourly, daily or weekly basis. Home Helpers also offers assistance to expecting/new mothers, disabled residents and those recovering from surgery, injury or illness.
